FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

InnoviHealth Releases New Look and Feel, Enhanced Feature-set for Find-A-Code™

Popular Medical Coding Software Now Includes Lighter, More Intuitive Design, Larger Base Font, New Bookmarks, Note Pad Tools and More!

February 4, 2020, SPANISH FORK, UT. innoviHealth today announced the release of its latest update of Find-A-Code, the widely popular software used throughout the medical coding industry. Find-A-Code provides the most complete medical coding and billing resource library available anywhere to help coders, claims managers, denial-management and auditing departments save time, increase productivity, improve accuracy, and avoid denials.

“Design and functionality for Web sites have changed drastically over the past few years. The challenges we face are finding streamlined ways to provide the gigabytes of coding information in a format that is usable and relevant - without the 'drinking from a fire hose' affect,” said Dave Berky, Chief Innovation Officer. “For FindAcode.com, we ultimately wanted to strike a balance between modernizing the existing design and maintaining a look and feel that thousands of our loyal subscribers have historically found very comfortable.”

Find-A-Code was created in 2007 as an LLC and officially launched with its first Web customers in 2008. Importantly, the current product design and functionality reflect over a decade of direct user-input. The “one-stop-shop” platform is easily customizable and includes features such as a powerful search engine, online libraries with extensive information for all major code sets, along with a wealth of supplemental data. Find-A-Code is offered as a cafeteria model where users only pay for what they actually need; allowing them to have all of their most trusted resources in one place.

Updates announced today also include an easier-to-read, larger font, new Bookmarks and NotePad tools and more – all designed to help make coders and billers who use the software even more effective. In the coming months and quarters, innoviHealth intends to roll out many additional Find-A-Code design and content improvements, aimed at providing relevant coding information “on-demand,” with even fewer clicks and drill-downs required.
